

Icelandic long distance reflexives revisited
Learning about them and from them since 1975

Höskuldur Þráinsson
University of Iceland

In this talk I will first review what I said about Long Distance Reflexives (LRDs) in Icelandic in a talk at NELS in Montreal 1975. I will then give a simplified overview of what we have learned about LDRs in Icelandic since then and what we have learned from studying them, especially about the interaction of different components of "grammar" in a general sense.